

Dirty Deeds Done Dirt Cheap

*Aint too young to admit it
And I'm not too old to lie
I'm just another empty head
That's why I'm lonely
I'm so lonely
But I know what I'm gonna do...*

And we all know what you're gonna do, you're gonna Ride On Bon!

It's okay Bon that you came blazing through towns having sex with every woman available and still felt lonely. I'm sure it was a lonely world traveling around in an used station wagon while three guys followed behind in a truck filled with equipment. Makes me almost want to not like you. It's a good thing there's die-hard fans that understood you and your true love for Rock n Roll.

Inside Sunset Strip Tattoo, Mike Duffau sat for three hours while Rob inked Mike's forearm with a commemoration to AC/DC his favorite band and singer, Bon Scott. He got the picture of Bon from the cover of their 1976 Australian Version of Dirty Deeds Done Dirt Cheap, and 'Ride On Bon' off liner notes from their Bon Fire Box Set.

And why? AC/DC was always about the music - never to be commercial, just representing the working class. Bon's lyrics, always prophetic, also empathized with his fans in the presence of a shady world.

Now that the commemorating is done, it's off to the concert this December 6th at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, California.

...Till then I'll just keep dragging on...
